

Construction 2006

Construction 2006 is a truly unique event combining education, training, exhibits and live demonstrations with lots of business development opportunities!

Construction 2006 (co-located with Green Construction 2006)--April 12-13 at the San Jose Convention Center, will bring the entire Northern California Building Community together at one time. Attendees include: Commercial Developers, General Contractors, Heavy Construction, Residential Builders, Specialty Contractors, Engineers, Architects, Planning Professionals, Building Owners, Government Officials and others

The 2 day event features a full program of instructional sessions and workshops covering building, design and construction topics as well as important business topics like sales, marketing, legal issues and more. To round off the business program, we'll have new project presenters introducing new projects and providing insight and tips from the buyers side of the market.

An exhibition hall and outdoor exhibit area features hundreds of manufacturers, suppliers and service providers to the construction industry. Local contractors and architects also have the opportunity to exhibit and develop new contracting relationships as well as meet professional buyers, builders and owners.
